Our Commitment to Corporate Counsel

Many corporate counsel, particularly for US, UK and other European companies, have found Kennedy Van der Laan to be a valuable partner to provide external legal advice and representation. We value the opportunity to work with corporate counsel and understand what you need from us. In our relation with you as corporate counsel, we will:

- strive at all times to help you serve your company effectively and efficiently.
- provide you with advice that builds from your own internal knowledge base and supplements it with the specific local law or specialist legal knowledge.
- work to build a relationship of open exchange of information and knowledge with you and your team.
- invest in learning about your company and legal department, as well as the industry in which your company operates.
- provide practical, business-focused representation, proposing practical solutions to obstacles and giving an effective legal risk analysis without legal nitpicking.
- in conflict situations, provide strategic dispute resolution advice that considers and weighs the realistic legal risks and consider with you the most appropriate form of dispute resolution for each specific matter.
- if you require, coordinate legal advice or representation across multiple jurisdictions using local attorneys and law firms well-known to us in each jurisdiction.
